Vincent Richards Vanquishes Robert Kinsey in Final Round of Southampton Tennis Tourney

in the final round of the men's deubles Robert and Howard Kinsey defeated Richards and Francis T. Hunter at 8-6, 6-3, 2-6, 4-6, 6-3. Miss Helen Hooker and S. scored repeated "kills" on overhead shots.

The honor of umpiring the singles match was conferred upon Colonel Robert M. Thompson, upon whose yacht the players who will compete at Newport to-morrow sailed this evening for that port. Dr. Walter L. Niles acted as juage of foot faults.

The match began with Richards holding the service, but Kinsey broke through for a lead of 1—0, as Richards made errors from back-court. In the second game, on his own service, Kinsey led at 40—15, but the New York boy pulled it out the last point on a azzling cross-court volley to the side line. The junior champion was gradually speeding up in his play and smothering many of Kinsey's returns with brilliant volleying.

Deadly in Smashing.

Deadly in Smashing.

Throughout this match Richards was very deadly on his smashing, whether from a position close to the net or from deep court. I kept a tabulation of Richards's "kills" and errors on these shots, and the figures show that he scored nine absolute "kills" and made four errors. Of course, there were perhaps a dozen other occasions when Richards, although he failed to "kill," nevertheless made the forcing shots that enabled him eventually to win the points. The youngest of the Davis Cup players has recently acquired a decisive finishing power on his overhead shots that compares favorably with that of any player on the courts to-day. Richards kept improving as the match progressed.

Of the next seven games the East-erner won five, with Kinsey winning only the sixth and eighth, and thus Richards took the first set at 6—3. The Californian, while playing sound tenuis and always offering a strong defense because of the great amount of court he covered and his magnificent recoveries, did not, in my opinion, have the snap and dash that he had shown in defeating Shimizu earlier in the tournament.

Even at his ton form however, I serieusly doubt whether Kinsey could have done much better against Richards as the junior was to-day. I have seen Richards play better tennis than he did his afternoon, under the spur of necessity, but never have I seen this slend with more potentialities. Kinsey was making desperate efforts to turn the tide, and by dint of brillant recoveries of placed shots and wonderfully accurate shots down the side lines and at sharp angles across forecourt, as Richards started for the net, the Californian squared the set at 3-all by winning the fifth and sight.

the ground lost because of the adverse legislation of the Hughes administration the present meeting at Saratoga is proving. While the season is more than half spent and any one of a dozen or more twoyear-olds may be crowned champion of the juveniles, it is indeed possible the eventual champion has not yet been seen under silks. This applies SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Playing under sunny skies for unbeaten, and there are many wise ones who believe Whiskaway is doomed the first time in the entire week of play, Vincent Richards, of New York, to trail more than one of his competitors before the Spa rings down the curtain at the end of the month.

But better than the revival of the breeding industry, which is reflected in the exceptional class in yearlings being sent up to the sales, or of a reawakened interest on the part of the public in this sport of kings is the evident breaking down of false prejudices against racing itself.

Governor Nathan L. Miller Saturday afternoon paid racing its finest testimonial in twenty years. He attended a day's sport featured by the running of the Saratoga Special, the most important stake contest to date for the juveniles. The Governor sat in the stewards' stand during the running of this classic, and in presenting a gold cup to Harry Payne Whitney, owner of the winner, Goshawk, paid his compliments to the sport and the men associated with it in no unmistakable terms. The Governor was given an ovation that exceeded in warmth of appreciation the mad applause that greeted Goshawk and Jockey McAtee at the end of their

The American turf may point with pride to Saturday as a red letter day. Governor Miller honored the sport as it probably never had been honored in the Empire State. It is to be hoped that those who control racing's destinies will continue to keep it clean and free from suspicion, as it was found to be on the occasion the executive visited the Spa.

Is Boxing Commission Misusing Its Powers?

WHILE the Boxing Commission has accomplished many commendable and highly beneficial things during its official career and has brought boxing to the highest level it has ever known in this state, there are clear indications that politics and personal favoritism have begun to influence and bias some of its official acts.

The commission has built up a splendid reputation for itself and has won the respect and confidence of the public, but this esteem may be dissipated very easily if the board continues the recently acquired habit of

The regeneration of boxing is due in large measure to the fact that a higher caliber of men can be found engaged in it than ever before. Many of these men are becoming disgruntled and disgusted with the high-handed methods employed by the boxing authorities. Mrs. Mallory, on the eve of her defense of her national singles title, gave every indication yesterday that she is at the top of her game. She executed both her backhand and forehand strokes with ease and power and she was well-nigh perfect in her placements. The most remarkable feature of her play, however, was the business-like manner in which she executed her shots. There was little wasted effort in Mrs. Mallory's play and the match required only twenty-nine minutes.

Mrs. Jessup started well, breaking through her opponent's service-to win the first game by a continued assault of volleys from the ret position. The Wilmington player also took the first three points of the second game, only to lose out after the points had gone to deuce several times.
